Can Your Mental Health Medication Work Harder For You?

For a more personalized treatment plan, ask your provider about the Tempus Genetic Test.

Why is it so hard to find the right medication for me?

Medications are not one size fits all. Depression, anxiety, ADHD and other psychiatric conditions are often treated with a trial and error method including different medications and doses to find the right combination that will work best for you. Unfortunately, when more treatment steps are required to treat depression, the higher the likelihood of experiencing relapse.¹ As a result, it can take a long time for you and your doctor to find the right medication and dose that will work best for you.

The Tempus Test

Your healthcare provider would like to use the Tempus genetic test to help develop a customized treatment plan for you based on how certain genes affect the body's response to medication.

The Tempus genetic test provides you and your healthcare provider with your specific, personalized gene report. The report contains information about how you may metabolize certain medications and how you may experience certain side effects from these medications. The results of the Tempus genetic test can be used by your healthcare provider to help select the best treatment plan for you.

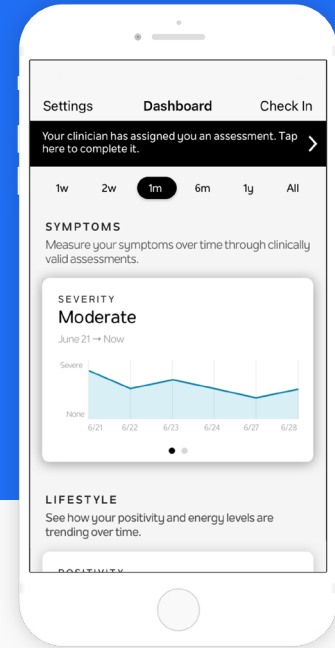

In a recent survey, 60% of patients reported that their provider changed their medication or dose after receiving Tempus test results.²

Tempus PRO™

Your provider may also choose to use Tempus PRO™ as part of your treatment plan. Tempus PRO™ is a mobile application that you can use to share information with your provider that may reflect how you are responding to your treatment. This allows your provider to use information collected between appointments to build a treatment plan that best supports your mental health care plan. The frequency of your assessments depends on your provider's preferences, and may change from time to time.

Your provider will discuss the Tempus PRO™ app with you at your appointment. Tempus will send a link to download the app via SMS text message or email.

How It Works

-  01 Your healthcare provider fills out the necessary forms to order the test. Your provider also collects a saliva sample or has a kit mailed to your home.
-  02 Your provider may choose to use Tempus PRO™. If so, look for an email or text message from Tempus to download and set up the app.
-  03 Once your saliva sample is received by Tempus, we will analyze your sample to see how you metabolize certain medications and how you may experience certain side effects from these medications.
-  04 The Tempus report will typically be delivered to your provider within 2 weeks after Tempus receives your sample and clinical information.
-  05 As you move forward, you may continue to answer questions from the Tempus PRO™ app to help your doctor understand your treatment response.

Being able to work with my physician to be able to find the right medication for me, using the test results, was really incredible. Through the Tempus test, we were able to narrow [the medications] down.

/// OSCAR

Tempus really helped the doctor prescribe the right amount of medication at the right time. And so my side effects were minimized.

/// ELIZABETH

It was interesting to see that according to the test, I'm a fast metabolizer of that particular pain medication. It gave me a bigger picture of how my genes work.

Some medications listed in the reference materials that accompany the test results have gene-drug interaction data available in the labeling for FDA approved drugs, while other medications will be classified based on other scientific sources (such as CPIC guidelines and primary literature). Patients should review the test results and reference information with their treating healthcare providers. Medications or dosing should not be changed outside of the direction and monitoring of a licensed provider, or changed solely based on the test results or reference information.
